Re. : Adding some systems MPEG-4 Code-points to the existing MP4 Registration Authority

To whom it may concern,

As we stated in our previous letter, “If there are other code-points within the MPEG-4 systems space that could sensibly be handled in parallel, we would be prepared to consider them also”, we are willing to manage the following code-points on the existing registration authority we operate at <http://www.mp4ra.org/>:

- 1) Descriptor tags in the Object Descriptor Framework
- 2) Command tags in the Object Descriptor Framework
- 3) SLConfigDescriptor predefined values
- 4) ObjectTypeIndication values
- 5) StreamType values

Note that ObjectType and StreamType have preliminary versions of the documentation table on the web site.

We believe that Apple Computer can fulfill the requirements to be a candidate for the office of Registration Authority (RA) as defined in the ISO/IEC Directives.

Apple operates the registration authority and database without fee. Apple will not require any financial contribution from ISO, IEC Central Secretariat or their members.

We would like explicit direction on the range or ranges of values that should be allocated for these code-points, and verification that we have found and documented all the existing code-points.

With our best regards,
